TOWN TOPICS.

—There will be a dress ball at Catoosa springs next Wednesday night.

—E L Wood is a candidate for tax collector in DeKalb county. He is capable, honest and efficient.

—And now it is time that Col W A Shorter should rise and explain all about thanking the wrong lady for a bouquet in the presence of the right one.

—Season tickets over the Macon & Western railroad are in demand at Cartersville, "good from Atlanta to Griffin." Their hearts and affections are Trammel-ed.

—And now the weary candidate tries the "right shoulder shift" on the unsophisticated voters.

—The Little Gem is the title of a handsome amateur sheet published at Gainesville by W M L Carter, at 25 cents per annum

—We heard two sermons from Dr. Spalding, of Atlanta, last Sunday. They were model efforts of ability, piety, purity and efficiency. He is an earnest speaker, peculiarly plaintive and persuasively eloquent. We were well pleased with him as a man and a preacher.—Marietta Journal.

—Col. Sam Weil, the jolly German delegate from Fulton, said in substance to the convention: "Girls over ten or twelve years old wear their dress skirts long enough to touch their ankles.—Augusta Constitutionalist.

—In the list of wealthy men published on Sunday, several lines were left out by inadvertence. Among the names omitted was that of M C & J F Kiser & Co., who run up into the hundred thousands.

—The president and directors of the Atlanta benevolent association are again under obligations to Councilman Jerry W. Goldsmith for another donation of fifty dollars. Such generosity to a most useful and deserving institution is as graceful and liberal as it is judicious and charitable. Long may he live to see the fruits of his kind-hearted benevolence.

—The new rolling mill of L. Scofield & Co. is rapidly approaching completion. The boilers have forty-two flues each, and have been subjected to a hydrostatic pressure of 150 pounds without discovering the slightest flaw. The engine is of 103 horse power and all of its attachments were shipped direct from Detroit, Michigan, without transfer.—Chattanooga Commercial.

—One of the servants in the hotel at Catoosa springs attempted to "pass over the river" by taking laudanum, but was anchored on this side by the prompt prescription of one of the lady guests from Atlanta.

—A delegation from Georgia lodge of I. O. G. T. visited Big Shanty lodge on Saturday night last, and had a general good time. They were cordially received and entertained in princely style. They report the lodge in fine working order and composed of the very best material in the vicinity. Speaking was indulged in by both visitors and members up to a late hour. After election of delegates to the grand lodge to meet in West Point on the 12th of next month, the lodge adjourned

OUR FAME AT STAKE.

SHALL THE COTTON FACTORY BE A FAILURE?

An Earnest Appeal to the Subscribers From President Kimball—He Tells Plain Facts—Shall Shall They Remain That Way?

The following was received late Saturday night, but its importance to the people of Atlanta gives it additional interest for to-day:

Editors Constitution: After the workmen at the factory had been paid off this evening and scattered, I took a quiet walk around the entire premises, and though I have done the same thing a thousand times before, I don't think I was ever so fully impressed with the grandeur and magnificence of the enterprise until now; and as I sat and looked up and down at its long line of windows, tall smoke stack, and caught a glimpse of the glittering machinery, it was but a small stretch of the imagination to see the smoke pouring from the stack, the steam from the ponderous engines, and to hear the hum of many thousands of spindles and hundreds of looms, and it really seemed to me that every brick and piece of timber from foundation stone to the cap upon that magnificent chimney was glad that each one of them was performing a part, however small that part might be, in creating, forming and sustaining the noble structure that stood before me. A few hand fulls of brick that lay upon the platform seemed sad that they were not placed in the very lower corner of the great chimney; notwithstanding that they knew the terrible weight and pressure they would have to bear, yet they wanted the proud satisfaction of having made sacrifices and accepted responsibilities for the purpose of aiding and forwarding an enterprise which is destined to be of so much benefit to the poor people of Atlanta.

But the thought that on Monday morning nearly a hundred workmen would again assemble with the confident assurance that when Saturday night came they would be paid for their labor; and that during the coming week hundreds of tons of machinery would be rolled up to the factory platform, having been shipped with the same confident assurance that upon delivery the freight, which had accumulated as it passed over so many different roads, though very large, would be promptly paid; And of the lumber, the nails, the tin, the iron, and numerous other materials, all necessary to make up the whole, which would, during the week be delivered upon the premises, all with that same feeling that payment therefor would be promptly made; and considered that all of this had been ordered and contracted for with the most confident assurance on the part of the management that subscribers would fulfill their part of the contract, and the practical fact met me that they had not done so; and I found I had no time for fanciful reveries, however interesting, but must direct every thought to a channel that would produce practical results. Therefore I determined then and there to ask for the use of your columns to make one more personal appeal to our delinquent stockholders. I am tired and nearly sick, having for some time performed treble duties on account of the necessary absence of my assistants, therefore I shall not attempt to dress my appeal in soft, easy, flowing language, but will simply state plain facts. We have several classes of stockholders.

The first class pay promptly and seem to really enjoy paying, and not as if they already had the blessings that will be heaped upon them by the hundreds of poor people who will be made happy in obtaining labor by reason of their liberality.

The second class pay promptly when called upon, but continually growl and seem to feel that they will never directly or indirectly receive any benefits from their payments.

The third class meet us pleasantly and seem anxious to pay, but affirm that they positively are unable to do so.

The fourth class are persons who are able but who make every possibly excuse—producing all sorts of objections and treat us and this enterprise with the greatest disrespect

The fifth class seem to feel indifferent and think that their subscriptions are so small that it is no matter whether they pay or not—at any rate they intend to pay everything else first. Now I wish to say to all of these different classifications, that the policy of the management so far has been to recognize the fact that some were confident, some doubtful and some skeptical, but to treat them all with respectful courtesy. The management have so far carried out their part of the agreement, the work has gone forward with a commendable degree of energy, and with that degree of economy that will bear the closest scrutiny. The buildings are now nearly complete, the machinery is being delivered at the rate of from thirty to fifty tons per day, and the management must have the money due from subscribers in order to meet the payments.

By the terms of the subscription the payment in June should have been double what they were in May; and yet the facts are that we collected less in June than in May, and less in July than in June.

It is well understood that our subscriptions are made up—not unlike the building itself—as one brick by itself is but a small part, yet, as they are built one upon another, and when all combined make a solid structure. So it is with our shareholders. One share seems but a very little, and the holders are apt to think, Well, surely, the withholding of my little eight dollars this month cannot affect the company. Yet, when several hundred think and act upon the same idea it amounts to serious embarrassment.

I have already written much more than I intended, and will only add that to the first class of stockholders, I say "God bless you."

To the second I will say that we are exceedingly glad to receive your money and regret that your faith and anticipations are not equal to ours.

To the third, we will say that we appreciate your good wishes, and when fully satisfied that you cannot pay now, we shall let you rest until we think you can.

To the fourth class, I will say that we have so far heard your excuses with patience, but after the 15th of this month the directors have determined that if you have further excuses to make that you shall do it to their attorney.

To the fifth class, I will say that your small subscriptions are important and must be paid.

To the great number who are represented by the "brick which lie upon the platforms" and who have no part or lot in this matter I will say, that though you may suffer for a season, yet I trust that after a while the directors will give you an opportunity to take part in this the grandest and most practical of all reform movements. Respectfully,

H. I. KIMBALL, president.

THE STATE VS. JONES.

Taking of the Account Between the State and Ex-Treasurer John Jones.

At the last term of the superior court of Fulton county, the court appointed an auditor to take and state the account between John Jones, ex-treasurer of Georgia and the said state.

THE AUDITOR

thus appointed is the Hon. J. M. Pace, of Covington, a distinguished lawyer, and capable business man. Mr. Pace accepted the appointment, and upon notice of time and place, is now in the city prepared to hear all the evidence in the matter and secure the correct data for his report.

THE COUNSEL

employed upon either side of this large and important case represent an array of able and learned lawyers not often found associated with, or pitted against, each other.

For the state appear Hon. N. J. Hammond, the state's attorney general; Hon. H. R. McCay, Hon. Willis A. Hawkins and Col. W. T. Newman.

For the ex-treasurer and his securities appear Hon O A Lochrane, Hon. John L Hopkins, Col. P L Mynatt, B H Hill and son, and Hoke Smith.

With such advocates the cause will not suffer for the want of proper investigation and their names alone are a guarantee of the closeness and justice of the examination in progress.

THE AUDITOR'S COURT

met yesterday at 10 a. m in the room of the president of the senate, where its sitting will take place.

After a deal of consultation as to agreements, admissions of testimony, etc, statements were made by counsel going to show the necessity for a postponement for a few hours, several days or the entire week. This plan was adopted and counsel for defendants expressed themselves as ready to go on with the investigation. After determining to take up the first, or Grant-Nutting bond case, the court adjourned to 10 a. m. to-day.

The investigation will be rigid and capitally conducted The rights of all parties, under this arrangement can be stated pretty fully and almost entirely that they were for short sessions.

RADICAL 'ROUSEMENT.

Fully One Hundred Out—A Quiet Meeting.

The call to ratify the nomination of Wm Markham as the republican candidate for congress in the fifth district was responded to by fully one hundred persons (mostly colored) last night at the city hall. Col S A Darnell was called to the chair.

Speeches were made by the chairman, John L Conley, A E Buck, and S Wise Parker. The meeting was quiet, and very little enthusiasm was exhibited. It was announced that the meeting last night was only preliminary to a big ratification meeting to be held on the 22d instant.

BASE BLACKMAILING.

An Attempt to Drag a Gentleman Into the Toils.

There are no things so despisable as the malice and thievery of a blackmailer. Slander and backbiting are bad enough, but when any crawling human snake attempts to steal from a man under the pretences of being able to ruin his reputation and usefulness as a citizen there is no punishment too hard for the reptile. We are led, too, from several recent occurrences to believe that there are several parties in this city who are seeking a precarious living by such scoundrelly means. We have heard of cases within the past month where the scheme has been successful.

A NEW CASE,

which was not successful, was reported to us yesterday. Out on a leading street there is a large store under the direction of a young man of character and popularity. Within the past week he received a communication, evidently written in a disguised handwriting, in which he was informed that his "movements on last Monday evening were watched," and that parties were keeping on his track. The letter also stated that the party with whom he was seen was "a dangerous woman," and that he had better be careful of his walks and ways with her. This letter was a surprise because it spoke of matters which had no existence.

ANOTHER LETTER

reached the young man on Friday evening, detailing all that was in the first one, and containing most infamous and ruinous charges against the lady in question, who was named. The letter contained what purported to be a great deal of friendly advice, and still put the matter so peculiarly as to excite the indignation and resentment of the recipient. He took the letters to friends and consulted with them, and finally determined to hunt down the author and learn his purpose. The lady referred to is a married lady. At once the proper inquiries were set on foot and it is believed they will result in the exposure of the author. The letters are evidently forerunners of blackmailing operations, but will signally fail.

Lieutenant Garlington Promoted.

We notice in the last general orders, being No. 69 from the adjutant general's office, a long list of promotions, and among them the names of those who supply the places in the seventh cavalry regiment, Custer's regiment, made vacant by the disaster on Little Big Horn river Among those who are thus promoted is our young townsman Earnest A. Garlington, son of Gen. A. C. Garlington, who is made from second to first lieutenant in company D., his commission to date from June 25th, 1876, the date of the fatal charge above mentioned. Lieutenant Garlington has the congratulations of his many friends upon his good fortune.

Baseball.

A match game of baseball was played yesterday afternoon at the barracks ground between the Grey Socks and the "Tilden and Hendricks" club—a new organization. For amateurs the latter club showed remarkable proficiency, and could only have been successfully outdone by the veteran Greys, who have lately had several well contested games to contend for. Below we give the score of the Greys: Jones (p) 2 runs, 5 outs; McCrary (1st b) 5 runs, 4 outs; Hay (c) 5 runs, 4 outs; Lawshe (ss) 7 runs, 2 outs; Frank Lilly (c f) 8 runs, 1 out; White (3d b) 6 runs, 3 outs; Martin (2d b) 8 runs, 2 outs; Fred Lilly, (l f) 8 runs, 4 outs; Callaghan (r f) 5 runs, 2 outs. Total 49 runs, 27 outs.

The Tilden and Hendricks club scored 8 runs and 28 outs.

The latter club will play another game with the Greys shortly, and hope to show decided improvement.

CÆSAR'S THROES.

HE SENDS AN INSULTING MESSAGE TO CONGRESS.

Passage of the Hawaiian Bill—Speeches by Senators Gordon and Norwood—No Adjournment in View Yet.

Telegram to the Constitution.

SENATE.

Patching the District.

A concurrent resolution passed by the house for a commission of three senators and three representatives, to devise a government for the District of Columbia, was adopted.

Mr. BOUTWELL offered a resolution to pay the clerk for indexing the Mississippi reports. Adopted.

The School Amendment was taken up and discussed till the close of the morning hour, when it went over.

The Hawaiian Treaty Resumed

and Mr. NORWOOD concluded his speech. In conclusion he said that the effect of this bill would be to give the Hawaiian islands a bonus of a million a year, and would increase the difficulties in the way of their being acquired by the United States. He argued that the Chinese upon the islands were increasing, and suppose the United States should acquire them, it would only get a race of Chinese coolies and half breeds. The people of his section were more interested in

The Defeat of this bill than all of the United States. Besides, to take the duty off of rice would be to diminish the price below the cost of production in the country, and three hundred thousand people were dependent upon the production of rice in South Carolina, Georgia and Louisiana, and the interests of all these people would be injured by the passage of this bill.

Mr. MORRILL, of Vermont, spoke against the treaty.

Mr. LOGAN supported it, and BOUTWELL also.

Mr. GORDON said it was his purpose to have spoken on this bill at some length, but he was physically unable to do so. He protested against the passage of a law to carry into effect a treaty so

Partial in its Operation, and so unjust to a number of people of one section of this country. One objection existed against this measure—a matter of policy, and another a matter of principle. It aimed a death-blow at the interests of one section of this country, was of doubtful constitutional propriety, and therefore should be rejected. He knew the southern rice and sugar planters, and no people on the continent were more capable of Self-Sacrificing Patriotism.

than they were, in favor of free trade, but was it surprising that they opposed a bill which proposed to single out of all our productions those two upon which they solely depended. It was not just, and begging the pardon of the overwhelming majority of the senate which is thought proper to force upon his section the measure, he must say with that equality guaranteed not only by the constitution, but by the formation of the American union; much less was it just to try this experiment upon a people who by the vicissitudes of war had been made poorer than any other people ever were before. After further argument he moved to postpone the bill the second Tuesday in November. Rejected.

It was Not Consistent

The bill was then read the third time and passed. Yeas, 29; nays 12, as follows:

The Vote.

Yeas—Allison, Anthony, Boutwell, Burnside, Cameron, of Wis., Christiancy, Cragin, Dawes, Eaton, Ferry, Frelingusen, Harvey, Jones, of Nev., Kelly, Kernan, Logan, McDonald, McMillan, Mitchell, Morton, Oglesby, Paddock, Randolph, Sargeant, Saulsbury, Spencer, Stevenson, Wadleigh and Windam—29.

Nays—Bogy. Booth, Cooper, Cockrell, Davis, Jones of Florida, Key, Morrill, Norwood, Patterson, West and Whyte—12.

Messrs. Robertson, Gordon, McCreery and Withers also would have voted against the bill, but were paired with Messrs. Conklin, Hitchcock, Barnum, Wright and Clayton who would have voted for it.

Mr. SPENCER offered a resolution proposing that a committee investigate the Alabama election. Several senators objected and it went over. Recess.

HOUSE.

Randall's Speech.

Mr. RANDALL in his speech, gave the following figures of the aggregate of the twelve great appropriation bills:

The estimates of the department for the year were $203,099,025. The bill as reported by the committee on appropriations, $137,233,155. The bills as passed by the house, $138,752,340.

The bills as passed by the senate $158,260,598. The bills as enacted into law $147,719,074, as against appropriations for last year of $177,663,327, being a reduction of $29,944,253.

Mr. BANNING of Ohio of the committee on affairs asked leave to report back the senate bill providing that the cavalry forces now engaged against the Sioux be increased 2,500 men.

Mr. COX of New York objected.

The National Fool.

The SPEAKER laid before the house a message from the president in regard to the river and harbor appropriation bill, stating that if it had been compulsory on him to expend the money therein appropriated he would veto it, but as it was not he would take care that no public money should be expended on useless public works [illegible] were not clearly national.

The message created quite a sensation.

Mr. REAGAN, of Texas, immediately rose and moved that the message be referred to the committee on commerce, of which he is a member, and from which the bill was originally reported. He criticized the president for assuming that his personal judgment and discretion were to determine how far the appropriations in the bill were to be applied to the objects defined, and characterized that as an act of personal government. The message was a document of so remarkable a character that he (Reagan) regarded it as so great a departure from the constitution, so singular an avowal in advance of the president's determination not to obey the law, that he thought the people's representatives should not permit such a message to come before them without some expression of dissent.

Mr. HEREFORD of West Virginia, chairman of the committee on commerce, condemned the message very severely, regarding it as in keeping with the president's idea expressed after the Franco-German war, that there was a strong similarity between the American republic and the German empire. The president has announced in plain language that he intended to set at naught and nullify the will of the American congress. What right had the great Cæsar to decide what were and what were not national works. He favored the proposed reference of the message.

Mr. KASSON, of Iowa, defended the position taken by the president. He admitted that if the bill directed the president to spend a certain amount on each work specified in the bill, then the president proposed to violate the constitution, but the language of the bill was not mandatory. It simply appropriated a maximum sum for these objects and nowhere directed the president to spend any particular amount in any particular works.

The message was referred.

Recess.

Morton's Return.

WASHINGTON, August 14.—Senator Morton has returned. He has no intention of making another political speech in the senate this session.

The postoffice committee of the house took no action on the post route bill to-day.

Still in Session.

WASHINGTON, August 14.—The house is still in session at eleven o'clock but is restive waiting on the convenience of the senate. Banks has made a speech in favor of Bland's silver bill. No business of importance has been transacted. Banning again endeavored to bring up the army bill but met objections.

WASHINGTON, August 14.—The senate has been engaged all the night in discussing the proposed amendment to the constitution prohibiting appropriation of money for support of sectarian schools. Both houses in session.

Kilbourne's Suit.

WASHINGTON, August 14.—The judiciary committee of the house have retained W. H. Trescott, assistant secretary of state under Mr. Buchanan, Hon. Wm. M. Merrick, formerly member of congress, and Henry Wise Garnett, grandson of ex-Governor Wise, of Virginia, to defend Speaker Kerr and others in the suit brought by Hallett Kilbourne for false imprisonment.

The tenor of the senate does not indicate sudden adjournment of congress.

News in the Corridors.

WASHINGTON, August 13.—The Indian appropriation bill reported by conference was adopted.

Mr. Henry Watterson, from Kentucky, was seated.

The post route bill amended by the senate to restore fast mails and franking privilege was referred to the committee on postoffice and post roads. The reference is considered fatal to the bill as the committee cannot reach it this session, and the bill can only come up by a two-thirds vote.

Singleton and Schleicher spoke this morning.

Mr. Randall is making a great speech, speaking as he says to the twelve appropriation bills and the republican party.

A LYNCHBURG SPOUT.

Five Miles of Road Submerged—The Engineer and Brakeman Killed.

Telegram to the Constitution,

LYNCHBURG, VA., August 13.—About three o'clock a. m. a water-spout struck the line of the Virginia Midland railroad near McIver's station six miles north of Lynchburg The flood extended for about five miles swelling the smallest creeks into rivers and submerging hundred of acres never before under water. A culvert was carried away leaving a gap ninety feet broad and fifty deep, into which the southbound freight was precipitated, killing C. D. Keyes, engineer and Bob Anderson, brakesman. The storm lasted only a few moments and all passenger trains were stopped by the waters and escaped without disaster. In six hours the water had so far receded as to allow a child to step across the stream. The passengers were transferred around the break and there will be no interruption to trains after Sunday night.

The Democracy of DeKalb.

On my return home from Gainesville yesterday, at Lithonia a friend called my attention to an article in your issue of the 8th under the above heading. It is true, as Mr. Barry says, that I did ask the democratic committee to relieve me from acting as their chairman, for the reasons stated by Mr. Barry. It is also true that the committee authorized Mr. Barry to call the committee together in case he might think it proper, and had Mr. Barry seen proper to have called the committee together, I should have recognized his authority and acquiesced in it. While this is all true, I never thought the first time that it took the powers from me to call the committee together in case of necessity. It is a well known fact that the committee that met on the first Tuesday in July, failed to make any provision for a nomination, and that the impression went out that there would be no nomination. This action of the committee seemed to create dissatisfaction among the democratic party, and shortly after there was a very respectable democratic meeting held at Lithonia, and I happened to be there, and it seemed that one of the objects of the meeting was to consider the action of the executive committee and devise some plan by which they could get a nomination. I was called upon at said meeting, as chairman of the executive committee, to explain the action of the committee in refusing to provide for a nomination. While doing so, I stated to the meeting that I felt somewhat reluctant to call the committee together, as I did not know the feelings of any other members of the committee. The sense of the meeting was taken in regard to a nomination, and it was unanimous for nomination. This was evidence to my mind that a very large portion of the good and conservative citizens of the democratic party demanded a nomination and in obedience to that demand, I as chairman of the executive committee decided to call the committee together on the 5th of August, and so publicly announced in the meeting, doubting not but what I had the right, with no thought or intention of reflecting upon Mr. Barry or any one else, or usurping any power, my object was to satisfy the wishes of the party and secure harmony. There was already a number of candidates in the field with a probability of more, and I knew the longer it was delayed the more difficult it would be to harmonize. I hope this will be satisfactory to Mr. Barry, and that our misunderstanding will cause no confusion in the party but that the party will go quietly on and put good men in nomination on the first Saturday in September, and that after that time we will hear of no independent candidate who calls himself a democrat. If there should be turn him over to the goats where he can hold up his tail if he wishes, but not be allowed to hold up his head among democrats. I shall stand by what the committee done at their call meeting—shall vote and give my influence for the men who are put in nomination under its action.

The Servians Picking up Courage Again—An English Murderer Hanged—Other Foreign News.

Picking up Courage Again.

BELGRADE, August 14.—Prince Milan declares that the condition of the Servian forces is very satisfactory, and announces his resolution to continue the war to the last extremity. An aide de camp of Gen. Tchernayoff has arrived here, and reports that a large force is now concentrated at Banja.

Who Burns the Villages.

LONDON, August 13.—The Ottoman embassy here deny that the Turks burn Servian villages or carry petroleum for that purpose. The embassy allege that sixty villages on the Ottoman territory were burned by the Servians.

Swearing in the Old Chap.

LONDON, August 14.—The queen held a council Saturday night at Osborne. Disraeli took the oath of office as lord keeper of the privy seal.

He is Willing.

There was no demonstration on the return of Prince Milan to Belgrade. Milan had a conference with the English and Austrian consuls and expressed a willingness to abandon the war if Austria and England will support in negotiations for peace.

BELGRADE, August 14.—A salute of one hundred guns announced Princess Natalie's safe delivery of her son.

LIVERPOOL, August 14.—The man Fisk who was sentenced on July 28 for the murder and outrage of Emily Holland, a girl seven years of age, at Blackburn on March 30, was hanged to-day.

A Wreck.

BAHAI, August 14.—The Hamburg American steamer "Germania" is ashore at the entrance of this habor. It is feared she will wreck.

India's Governor.

LONDON, August 13.—A despatch to the Times from Calcutta says: The report that Lord Lytton will resign the office of governor general of India early in 1877 gains strength and is generally believed. The Madras newspapers assert the duke of Buckingham has been promised reversion of the governor generalship.

Chinese Atrocities.

SHANGHAI, August 13.—The French Union Chapel at Wing Koue Foo in the province of Ugan Hoi, was attacked by the populace during the celebration of mass, and the priest and many of the congregation killed.

A Cuban Battle.

HAVANA, (via Key West), August 13.—On the 1st inst 64 insurgents attacked Fort Jaques, in the jurisdiction of Cienfuegos. They captured four of the garrison, who were outside packing provisions. The rest of the garrison, 16 in number, were burned in the fort which was fired by the insurgents.

The insurgent chief Reeves, who was killed on the 4th instant, was an American by birth, 26 years of age. He first came to Cuba in 1869 as an orderly of General Jordan, and he was afterward made a lieutenant of cavalry by Gen. Ryan. He had been wounded nine times in battle with the Spaniards.

Ashore.

BAHAI, August 2.—The Hamburg steamer, Germania, is ashore near this place and is likely to become wrecked. The cargo is being saved.

DISRAELI'S MOVEMENTS.

The Probabilities of his Promotion.

MANCHESTER, August 14.—The Guardian's London dispatch says Mr. Disraeli' acceptance of a seat in the privy council has occasioned as much surprise as his elevation to the peerage. The object is to secure him a post to fall back upon if it should prove that his health is not strong enough to lead in the house of lords next session. It is expected that the title of Beaconfield will be supplemented by those of Viscount Hupenden and Baron Disraeli.

EDINBURGH, August 14.—The Scottsman says that a trustworthy correspondent informs it that Mr. Disraeli's elevation to the peerage is the first step toward his resignation of the premiership—not immediately, but before the next session. Lord Derby is mentioned as the next premier.

AN EXPLANATION.

Letter from Judge A. R. Wright.

ROME, Ga., August —, 1876.

Editors Constitution: In your strictures upon "Judge Wright's letter" to Gen. Glenn, you do me injustice, or you do not understand me. I do not propose to antagonize myself to the principles of my party; I do not propose to run it upon what Mr. Randolph called its seven cardinal principles, to-wit: "Five loaves and two little fishes."

"Come, let us reason together." The republican party have had the control of the government from the beginning of the war to the present time, except, lately, the house of representatives. They have plunged a great nation, without a debt, into an existing one of something over two billions. The capitalists who advanced this loan, through the republican party, have had absolute control of the government. After the plundering of the public treasury, the party in power seems to have had but one other object in view—the advancement of the interests of the bond holder. These two objects have been steadily pursued, until the richest and "best-to-do" laboring classes in the world have been reduced to a condition of suffering but little, if any, inferior to the Irish under British rule. While I write, this great toiling, suffering mass of humanity in the city of Cincinnati are demanding of its authorities "bread or blood."

Any man who opposes the steady exactions of these "money changers" who buy and sell "doves in the temple of God," which is the temple of liberty, is answered in defiant scorn and branded with the epithet of repudiator.

Now, I answer, it is a lie—the lie of the robber, who, while standing at the treasury and filling his pockets with the people's money, points to his neighbor, and cries "catch thief."

The Jew was entitled to his pound of flesh, so the bondholder to his debt; nothing more. It is useless to prate about his patriotism and his sacrifices for his country. In every transaction with the government he has exhibited all the keen instincts of the usurer who, according to the prophet, no matter what his profession, "shall not dwell in God's holy hill."

If God's promise to his people be true that they shall have "a place of rest," the bondholder is necessarily excluded, for he will "be after his interest in gold coin," and the privilege of doing the little banking business of that celestial sphere.

His first act of corruption and fraud was, if I recollect correctly, perpetrated in the first year of Gen. Grant's administration in funding five hundred millions of bonds not payable in gold, in bonds, dollar for dollar, payable in that coin, and at an interest about double the annual gains of the producing classes, which Secretary Wells places, in the most prosperous times, at not exceeding three to three and one-half per cent.

But the bondholder throws up his holy hands in horror at the bare suggestion of this idea, and cries "these bonds have been transferred, and I am innocent."

This fraud upon labor was enacted in the day time, before high heaven, by government, by law, and the world of mankind had notice when, where, and how it was done. Fraud like a turtle may be old enough to have moss upon its back, but age never makes it sacred.

As the possession of these bonds has passed beyond the control of the government and cannot be recalled, the interest should be reduced to correspond with their original value, which would be about three per cent.

If you and I shall live a quarter of a century, the misery of the people of the United States will compel this simple act of justice.

We proceed to another fraud upon the producing classes. Will you tell me how it is the consols of the British government—the most stable and wealthiest of European governments—are below par, while the bonds of the United States are from fifteen to twenty-five above par? The faith in the stability and capacity of the British to pay is stronger than in ours.

This is done by the machinery of the government, under the control of capital. It is done by the high rate of interest (double that of Great Britain) and the priveleges granted the bond holder. First, exempting his bonds from taxation, which is likely to be overwhelmingly ruinous. Secondly, conferring upon him the whole monopoly of the banking power. By this latter operation he is enabled to make his annual interest according to his wit and mercy, some where from twenty to one hundred per cent.

Who foots this bill? If the industry of the country don't do it, who does? The bond holder with his ten thousand dollar bond lying in his iron chest—or rather in the treasury at Washington, draws his six hundred dollars in gold. The bond don't work, it simply sleeps—with one eye open. If government does pay it in the first instance, where did the government get it from? Follow it in its circle and see if it does not ultimately come out of productive industry. So of the twenty per cent interest he makes upon his bills which the government delivers to him for currency. It is the control of this currency that enables him to make his corners about these large cities, and put up and down the produce market, to the ruin of labor and all other legitimate trade. I wish I had time, and you would allow space to tell about its iniquities, but neither is possible.

The third villany of this precious class, which you chide me as a democrat for attacking, consists in going into the market and buying up its own bonds not due, at from twelve to twenty per cent above their gold value. England has again and again reduced her interest, and also other Europ an governments, by compelling the holder to submit to the reduction, or offering to pay his bond in coin. After our republican friends have, by the machinery of government, put up our bonds, at the expense of labor, to 18 or 20 per cent, government goes into market and purchases at the premium. Who foots this bill? The men who make bread by the sweat of their faces will answer some day. See if Olympian Jove don't lend them his thunderbolts.

How does Gov. Tilden stand on all these questions? Does he propose to commute one cent of advantage of the bond-holder or alter his status to labor in any particular? Read his letter and see if the grand idea is not to uphold by all the means of government, this mighty power within whose coils lie helpless now the giant sons of labor. Even his very cleansing of this Augean stable and the driving of the plunderers out seems to be a necessity to protect the interest of the bond-holder. It is this element in his character that caused the New York Tribune, the peculiar representative of the bond-holding interest, to think him the next best man to Bristow;" that causes Carl Schurz, the feed orator of capital, to oppose him—because "an unfortunate casuality effecting a single human life might deliver the executive power into the hands of the soft-money party, into the hands of a politician without character, who has no views of his own on finance, but nevertheless the favorite candidate of the inflationists."

Is it right in you to charge me with party defection because I don't believe in this part of Gov. Tilden's character? He deserves well of his country for his mighty work of reformation in exposing and driving out the thieves of the canal ring in his own state. For that reason I support him. No man in the union is more objectionable on the bond question. His force of will and energy of character, if clothed with power, will make him formidable for good or evil.

I am a hard money democrat and I think I am able to prove to any fair minded man the only obstacle to a resumption of specie payments is the monopoly of banking in the hands of the bond-holder of banking on credit. The legal tenders can be funded in bonds in a week. And yet these whelps of iniquity, and "of all subtility," charge the true democracy with having "rag money" men—"inflationists" and such lik scandalous epithets.

Very respectfully,
AUGUSTUS R. WRIGHT.

A LUNATIC LOOSE.

He Attempts to Murder the Whole Family.

Telegram to the Constitution.

NEWBURG, N. Y., August 14.—Homer Dannate, 16 years old, while intoxicated attempted to murder his family with a revolver. He first attacked his mother who struggled with him, and she received only a slight wound in the hand. Supposing he had killed her as he aimed at her head, he left her and attacked his cousin, a girl of 16, who ran into the bed room. He fired two shots through the door without hitting her. He then broke in the door, shot her through the upper lip, the ball glancing. The girl jumped from the window, twelve feet, to the ground. While she lay there he fired twice more, each ball taking effect in the back near the kidneys, but inflicting only flesh wounds, which are not considered dangerous. He threatened the citizens and police, but was finally arrested.

ATLANTA ON TRIAL.

We present elsewhere a significant letter from President Kimball, of the Atlanta cotton factory company, concerning the present condition of its affairs. The contents of the letter are such as to arrest the attention of the public sufficiently without extra comment, but the CONSTITUTION, with its confident interest in all the great enterprises of the city, past and prospective, cannot refrain from adding whatever of emphasis it may to the appeal thus made in behalf of the cotton factory.

The public have reason to know from the progress already made in that great undertaking and from the constant and careful reports of the work made in the daily press from time to time, that few enterprises in our midst have been inaugurated upon such saving principles, such a clear basis of success, and pushed forward with such vigor and abiding hope as this factory. Looking down Marietta street from its junction at Peachtree, the eye takes in a portion of the towering structure which has been erected and is now ready for and actually receiving its complement of machinery. With this monster part of the enterprise already completed, it is fair to presume that there are few in the city or who come to visit it, seeing this work in its present development, but believe the factory an assured fact in all its further requirements. It will be a surprise to thousands and a regret to the whole city to know that so much cannot really be claimed for it.

But there is no ground for despondency or loss of faith in the ultimate success of the enterprise. We are free to say that there is every reason to believe that the plain straightforward and earnest appeal made by President Kimball will meet with the proper response. The fame of Atlanta has become identified with this enterprise and it will be a retrograde step—an unthought-of thing in her record—for her citizens to permit, at this late day, the abandonment of the project and the diversion of the capital invested and the property acquired to other purposes.

Other cities in our own state have watched this enterprise with suspicion, and been free to express a want of confidence in the ability of Atlanta to make the experiment involved in the enterprise. Abroad it is looked to with the most careful and curious interest, because this is the place and the field for a settlement by actual trial, of the possibility of manufacturing cotton with steam power and at a profit. Ex-President Davis only a few months ago remarked to one of our editors that should the Atlanta factory prove an undisputed success it would enjoy the honor of being the pioneer of southern independence in her greatest material interest. Hundreds of such factories would spring up in our section by the employment of capital that shall have lost its timidity in the presence of Atlanta's successful venture.

Now, the question is a plain one, Shall the factory have the pledged support to which it is in law and justice entitled? Shall it be a success or a failure? We leave the answer to those who are alone able to make it; but we cannot restrain the utterance of our belief that the answer will be given, that it will meet the appeal of President Kimball, and will preserve the fame of our city from derision and reproach.

TILDEN AND THE "CIRCULAR".

Political warfare is subject to as many evil practices and abuses of principle, as contests of the deadlier sort, and slander holds the highest favor among the political rank and file. Since the nomination of Tilden the radical press has been busy at publishing all manner of falsehoods concerning him. Among the lies thus propagated there is one which gets a prominent place and is held to prove that Mr. Tilden is a personally dishonest politician—the late co-adjutor of Tweed in ballot-stuffing, false-counting and manipulation of election returns. The following is the "circular" published by them and called "the proof:"

ROOMS OF THE DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE, October 27, 1868.

MY DEAR SIR: Please at once to communicate with some reliable person, in three or four principal towns and in each city of your county, and request him (expenses duly arranged for this end) to telegraph to William M. Tweed, Tammany Hall, at the minute of closing the polls, not waiting for the count, such person's estimate of the vote. Let the telegraph be as follows: "This town will show a democratic gain [or loss] over last year of — [number];" or this one, if sufficiently certain: "This town will give a republican [or democratic] majority of —." There is of course an important object to be attained by a simultaneous transmission at the hour of closing the polls, but not longer waiting. Opportunity can be taken of the usual half-hour lull in telegraphic communication over lines before actual results begin to be declared, and before the associated press absorb the telegraph with returns and interfere with individual messages, and give orders to watch carefully the count. Very truly yours,

SAMUEL J. TILDEN, Chairman.

The object of such a circular, they argue, is plainly to be seen, and that is to get the returns in for the purpose of manipulating the city vote so as to cover the deficiencies in the country. If this circular had been issued by Samuel J. Tilden, or with his consent, it would be evidence against him to the full extent that is claimed, but Tilden's life and principles are against such acts and methods, and we present here his decided denial of the charge and of any knowledge of the "circular." This denial was made one week after the date of the "circular," and all honest men will accord the truth upon this showing:

To the Editor of the Evening Post—SIR: My attention has been called to an article in your journal of last evening containing a circular to which my name is appended. I hasten to assure you that you will not lose your reputation as critics by assuming, on internal evidence, as you have correctly done, that no such paper was ever written, signed, issued, or authorized by me, or with any participation or knowledge on my part. I have read it for the first time in your columns; but I have no reason to believe that it had any such evil purpose as you suspect. For myself, I refused in 1844 to sign the famous "secret circular" relating to Texas, which is celebrated in the history of the Evening Post, though I might have been tempted by the illustrious association in which I should have found myself. Neither before that nor since have I ever been concerned in any circular marked "secret" "confidential," or "private;" nor shall I be, unless I should adopt that device for the purpose of getting some valuable truth, disguised in such a form, secured a wide publicity in the Evening Post and all the republican newspapers. Very truly yours,

NEW YORK, Nov. 4, 1868. S. J. TILDEN.

THE RULING PASSION

There are some very accommodating men in congress and among them our friend whose initials are "S. F. Miller" is the greatest. By reference to a topographical survey of congress we find that Samuel hails from the twenty-first district of New York—and furthermore that he was once a revenue agent. Now he is a congressman and he exhibits in this latter capacity the same liberal regard for public rights and the principles of a just appreciation of meum et tuum that are generally presumed to reside about a revenue "shebang."

But Samuel is now a patriot. He is "for the old flag"—an universal ailment just now—"and an appropriation"—equally an epidemic desire—but his willingness to appropriate runs in another channel from that which is popularly thought honest. We have upon our desk Samuel's latest "appropriation." It consists of a batch of ten pamphlets, made up of garbled speeches, parts of congressional debates, newspaper articles, etc., in behalf of the republican party and emanating from its bitterest partizans. These documents were sent to the "New Era" newspaper, but it is no more. Long ago it went glimmering into the charnel house of palsied and dead journalism. Sam Bard, its originator and engineer, has cut down his third term flagpole, left the republican camp, burned his ships and the bridges behind him and is for Tilden and Hendricks.

Still, our postmaster is no less a partisan missionary at government expense than congressman Miller himself, and so sends us the odorous mass of mendacity and falsifications.

The wrapper reads:

"Part of Cong. Record.
FREE. S. F. MILLER,
M. C."

Now, we are obliged for the compliment as it were, of having these papers sent us, but we protest against Miller and his people certifying to lies like the above in order to make the mails a free vehicle for their slanderous campaign literature.

"SITTING CALF" has finally "riz up!" It is an ill wind that blows nobody any good and the household of Ulysses is at last relieved of its anxiety over the future of its "hereditary military genius," so to speak! In the last general orders from Sherman's headquarters occurs the following, under the head of "promotions:"

"Second Lieutenant Frederick D. Grant, to be first lieutenant, June 28, 1876, vice Carter, retired from active service, (Company B, Fourth Regiment of Cavalry.)"

Now let the hew-gag be unharnessed and other implements of rejoicing clashed together! Unless the father of the valiant first lieutenant desires to first pause and send a word of condolence to Custer's family, we see no good reason why the thanksgiving and feasting should not proceed at once! Start up the music, Mr. Merryman!

IT is proposed to put Hon. John H. James in the legislature. It is a good idea, and would be a sensible thing for Fulton county. Out of her host of office seekers, we don't believe she has a man who would be more useful in the legislature. Right there is where James is needed, and we hope to see him there.—Sparta Times and Planter.

WE see nothing in Judge Wright's letter requiring notice from us. In fact, we see no reason for the lengthy document, as it is certainly no reply to any position taken by the CONSTITUTION.

THE following letter is said to have been written by Mr. Charles Francis Adams to Mr. Hugh F. McDermott, of Jersey city: "I am one of the class now denominated independents, asking no favors, and voting for the best men, without regard to party lines. I propose to retain my position. But as to the choice offered me between Mr. Tilden and Mr. Hayes though having no prepossessions against either I do not hesitate to say that the former is far the most fitted to meet the emergency in our politics in my opinion, and I intend to vote for him."

THE New York Mercury gets this pyramid from Uncle Samuel's letter:

Reform.
Home Rule.
Retrenchment.
Stop plunder.
Schools unpartisan.
Resumption after preparation.
Constitutional safeguards to all.
No more official malversation.
Let every man live within his own means.

ABOUT two miles from the city of Mexico is a remarkable old cypress tree, gnarled and twisted in a wonderful way. It is a thousand years old, and ten feet in diameter at its base. At ten feet from the ground it is fourteen feet in diameter, and at twenty feet it divides into two immense trunks. It is the old tree of Noche Triste under which, according to Prescott, Cortez gathered his men when driven by the Aztecs from the city. It was once fired and very much injured, but the trunk and shell will live for ages. The Mexican government have put a handsome fence of stone and iron around it, that no vandal may disturb it.

IT turns out that each of the presidential candidates is a Presbyterian either by practice or early training. Gov. Tilden is a regular, and exemplary attendant. Gov. Hendricks was taught the Shorter Catechism and was a member, although now a vestryman in the Episcopal church, his wife being of that church. The mother of Gov. Hayes was a staid old fashioned Presbyterian, but his wife takes him to the Methodist church. Mr. Wheeler is a Presbyterian elder.

THE jurors on wines at the centennial had 8,000 samples to taste. The result is general confusion, and opinions are badly mixed. The centennial was opened on the 10th of May. One hundred days have elapsed. If those jurors have been faithful, honest, and impartial, they must have taken 80 drinks each day to consume 8,000 samples. It is a laborious committee for hot weather—but if any vacancies occur, an army of applicants will rise up, and call themselves blessed if they are accepted.

Don't Poison Your System

With such hurtful drugs as quinine, calomel, or blue pills, but take instead that safe prompt and agreeable substitute, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which, whether it is used to remedy or prevent malarial fevers, overcome general debility, or to correct torpidity of the liver and bowels, will in every case be found fully adequate to the wants of the sick and feeble. It entirely removes dyspeptic symptoms, and by stimulating the flow of gastric juice, facilitates digestion and insures the conversion of food into blood, whereby the system is efficiently nourished and regains its lost vigor. This great vegetable restorative has received the endorsement of men of science, the press has repeatedly borne voluntary testimony to its existence, and the public has long since given it the preference to every medicine of its kind. aug12—d&w1w

These Springs are reached by a continous Railway, which lands the visitors in the Reception House in the centre of lawn.

A New Branch Narrow Guage Railroad constructed of a light new T rail, with fish bars, has been completed, affording our guests the comfort and convenience of stepping from one car to the other, and in a few moments being safely landed on the Springs grounds, making it much pleasanter than to be transferred to slow coaches over rough roads.

In addition to which, the Proprietors will keep for the use of their guests, the waters of the various Mineral Springs of the State. The newly discovered Iron Spring is regarded the finest tonic water in the State.

HARVEST.

With throbbing heart and tearful eye
I watched the spring-time fleeting by.

I saw the snowdrop at its birth
Fe..e't by spears of rain to earth;

The lilies burst her emerald sheath,
And showed the amethyst beneath;

The painted tulip fade and close,
Before the glory of the rose;

And now, down fields of sunburnt grass
I see the withering rose-leaves pass;

And night by night, and day by day,
The life of summer ebbs away.

I see the granaries overflow,
The mellowing orchards bending low.

O God! my heart in awe and fear
Looks back upon thy perfect year.

The bounty covers all the lands
I lift in prayer my empty hands.

Of all the summer of my life
My harvest is but sin and strife.

Oh! could these tears like April rain,
Make moist my heart's hard soil again,

And stir the seeds which Thou didst sow,
Oh! never should they cease to flow.

Could prayer but melt this ice away,
Oh! never would I cease to pray,

Till Thou, in mercy, Lord, didst bring
Into my soul a second spring.

Oh! let what rich reward and sweet
To lay its harvest at Thy feet!

Thrash's Consumption Cure and Lung Restorer.

CENTRAL RAILROAD & BANK'S CO., OF GEORGIA, ATLANTA, GA., June 4th, 1876.

Messrs. J. T. Thrash & Co., Griffin, Ga.:

GENTS—Please send me (as before) one largest size bottle of your "Consumption Cure and Lung Restorer"—true to name. It is the only remedy now extant for consumption and diseased throat and lungs. Other remedies, so numerously recommended, are but temporary palliatives, that do any good but for a short time, whilst your Consumption Cure and Lung Restorer gives relief at once and will permanently cure. My experience with remedies for the relief of the throat and lungs probably exceeds that of but very few persons, physicians or otherwise. I have been very near the point of dissolution of soul from its afflicted tenement; and have used every remedy ever heard of; the effect appeared only to procrastinate the sufferings of my mortal existence. Seeing Dr. Lovic Pierce's certificate of your medicine, and being well acquainted with the reverend doctor for nearly forty years, and consequently knew well his afflictions, concluded that your remedy might do me good, at least I had never used it, and as I had used every other remedy known or heard of, concluded at once to give it a trial. I sent to you for a bottle, you are aware, and after using it, I purchased more from Messrs. Hunt Rankin & Lamar, this city. Before the first was exhausted I was fully convinced of its good effects; and after or about the time of the use of the last two, I could speak easily, and could sing; a thing I could not have done for three years or longer; and have been able to lie down comfortably and sleep soundly, a comfort that I had not enjoyed for a long time. I have been using the remedy about twenty days, and unhesitatingly certify that it is a cure for consumption and all affections of the throat. My lungs commenced exhibiting signs of disease in March, 1858, the result of measles, a cough ensued and continued to grow worse. April, 1874, I was so feeble that I could not attend to business of any sort, and was forced to give up and come to Atlanta that I might be near my good old mother to breathe out my last on earth: the never-tiring attention of that mother and your Consumption Cure and Lung Restorer has saved me and I now feel as if my life might be spared me several years longer, Indian remedies, German remedies, and French remedies to the contrary. Respectfully,

JOHN H. MEAD.

Important to Parents and Guardians

MOUNT DE CHANTAL
Academy of the Visitation,
NEAR WHEELING, WEST VIRGINIA.

PARENTS in quest of a first-class school for their daughters, will do well to investigate the claims of this celebrated Academy. For thoroughness in every department of female education, Mt. de Chantal ranks pre-eminently high. Great attention is given to perfect the pupils in writing and speaking French with fluency. For those sufficiently advanced, it is the language of their recreation hours. The purity of accent and correctness of pronunciation acquired in this Institution have been a subject of surprise to the native Parisian. The renown for the superiority in music is so wide spread as to have made this Academy almost a national one. One feature, in particular, that should recommend Mt. de Chantal to the sensible parent, is the influence exercised to form the pupils to views and habits of economy, and to render them really practical and useful women of society in after years. Simplicity in dress is enforced by rule.

These facts, united to the exceedingly moderate rates of board and tuition (300 per annum,) will we trust, secure to this school as large and desirable a patronage in the future as it has enjoyed in the past.

For further particulars apply for prospectus to the Directress of Mount de Chantal Academy of the Visitation, near Wheeling, West Virginia.

CHOICE HOMESTEADS

Three Miles of Railroad Transportat'n

Lands Unsurpassed for Fruits Farming.

OFFICE SOUTH FLORIDA LAND AGENCY,
FORT MASON, Orange County Florida.

THE undersigned have entered into a business arrangement for the purpose of locating settlers on the public lands (either the United States or State) in this and adjoining counties.

Located in the most delightful portions of Orange county, in a section of territory conceded by all to be the best adapted to the culture of the orange and kindred fruits, and thoroughly acquainted with all the lands in this vicinity, we are better able to give information concerning the lands still vacant than any others engaged in the land business in this county.

The railroad now in course of construction connecting the St. John's river at Lake George with Lakes Harris, Eustis, Griffin, Dora and the other head water lakes of the Oclawaha river, will furnish all the surrounding lands with ample transportation facilities and place settlers within easy distance of the Northern and Eastern markets.

The Climatic Advantages of this section of territory are so well known as scarcely to need recapitulation. Vegetables and tropical fruits can be grown throughout the year without danger from cold. The severest frosts of this lake region do not injure vegetation, as was proven during the past winter, when the frosts killed early vegetables at considerable distances south of us and left this region untouched—not a blade of grass being injured.

Homesteads near the Railroad.

We are now prepared to locate settlers on the public lands in close proximity to the railroad One of the undersigned (Mr JOHN S. BANKS), has just completed a thorough survey of a large tract of United States lands, situated at from three to six miles distance from the railroad. These lands are not only admirably adapted to the culture of oranges, but are also excellent for farming purposes, and can be easily brought into cultivation, the old settlers in the vicinity raising an abundant supply of corn, cotton, sugar, etc., upon them.

Get a Homestead Now.

Parties who propose settling in Florida will find it greatly to their advantage to obtain to homesteads during the summer months, and thus avoid the rush of the fall months. Those desiring locate near the railroad can obtain

One Hundred and Sixty Acres Free

if their entry is made before the completion of the road. After its completion, which will be some time this coming fall, they will not be permitted to enter more than eighty acres. Persons locating during this summer can also get their lands in readiness for a crop of early vegetables next winter, and thus be enabled to realize a profit from the lands immediately. We are now

Prepared to Locate Homesteads, singly or in colonies, at moderate rates, and in every case we guarantee complete satisfaction. No lands will be located by us until one of us have thoroughly surveyed them, and in all cases our patrons shall be given the best tracts of which we have any knowledge, without favoritism or partiality being shown to any one.

State Lands.

We are also prepared to locate, survey and purchase any desired quantity of State lands, and will perform this work, either for a specified price in money or for an agreed upon per centum of land. We now have some choice pieces of State land marked out on our maps, which have been surveyed by us, and which are among the best lands of this State.

Further Details

can be obtained by addressing (with stamp enclosed for reply) the undersigned. Prompt attention given to all letters. Address
BANKS & ST. CLAIR-ABRAMS,
Fort Mason, Orange county, Florida.

To My Friends in Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina.

In response to many letters received by me, I have entered into a business arrangement with Mr JOHN S. BANKS for the purpose of locating settlers on the public lands of this and adjoining counties. Mr. BANKS is a practical surveyor of many years' experience, and possess a thorough knowledge of the public lands, having been United States Register of Public Lands in this State. We have explored and surveyed a considerable tract of these lands, and we are now prepared to locate settlers on

Choice Homesteads.

Many persons have written me expressing a desire to move to this State during the present year. These I would advise to OBTAIN THEIR HOMESTEADS NOW. In the fall months the rush of Northern settlers is so great that it is difficult to obtain choice homesteads; whereas, at present the travel is light, and one can select a place with greater ease In addition, the large tract of homestead lands contiguous to the railroad, recently surveyed and opened up for settlement by Mr. BANKS, if not entered this summer, will inevitably be taken up by the first influx of Northern travelers next fall. As my desire (without prejudice to Northern settlers) is to locate the numerous citizens of the States above named on choice homesteads, while able to do so, I urge them to make the selections at once, and thus secure valuable and eligible homes in the State.

OUR CHURCHES.

"WHAT IS TRUTH," DISCUSSED BY FATHER RYAN.

Presbyterianism Presented by Rev. Dr. Robinson.

WHAT IS TRUTH?

SERMON BY REV. A. J. RYAN, AT THE CATHOLIC CHURCH YESTERDAY. TEXT—JOHN XVIII.

An unusually large congregation gathered at the Catholic church on Sunday to hear Father Ryan. This gifted divine has many friends in our community, and in addition to the full membership of the church, we noticed the presence of a large number of Protestants. Father Ryan is looking scarcely as robust as when we saw him last, and we regret to learn that his health has not been good. He was however, able to preach, and entertained his large audience for upwards of an hour with an impressive and beautiful sermon. He chose no text, but read portions of the first chapter of the Second Epistle of St. Peter, and of the 18th chapter of St John. The discourse was mostly directed to the answering of the question propounded to the Saviour by Pilate, "What is Truth?"

THE SERMON.

The face of the prisoner was pale, and the hands of the prisoner were fettered, and the voice of the prisoner was ever so low; but undertoning his voice was an echoing power coming out of God's own mouth. And he was an humble man, and a helpless man; and not one earthly voice proved brave enough, fearless enough, strong enough, eloquent enough, to raise a voice in his behalf. He stood before the judge. The Roman banners, with a regal magnificence, flashed round the walls; but the prisoner stood forth in a kingly, heavenly radiance, grander than the splendors around him. The prisoner's name is Jesus Christ, and His name is God.——God tried before man! One of the greatest of all the mysteries of the thirty years life of Christ upon earth. He stooped so low. He was to be judged by man, who, in the valley of judgment, was afterwards to pronounce sentence on the whole human family.

They listened as they heard the low, softly toned words, floating like a music not of earth. They looked at him, as if they saw the gleaming eyes of majesty. They looked at him, appalled by the proud glance, shrinking before the fettered prisoner The governor looked at him. He too saw, and shrank back rebuked. He entered into discussion with the prisoner. He had heard of him before.

Rumors told that the man bore a fetterless power. Perhaps Pilate had dreamt of the mystery. Rumors came and told of wondrous deeds. He had talked to the people, and the multitudes listened and acknowledged the majesty of the man. He talked in a way of his own, as artless as the prattle of a child, and as deep as the voice of a God. He said, "I am the way, I am the truth, I am the light." Rumors came that he lulled the waves of the sea to sleep, and walked forth upon the troubled waters. Rumors too, came that at the murmur of his voice men awoke, and walked forth from the sleep of death. Rumors came that he looked into the eyes where sight was buried, and darkness was changed into light. Rumors came again that he went among the lowliest and made them dream in thoughts the loftiest.

"Are you a king?" He had proved his royalty—a mystery too deep, too far beyond the reach of human nature; and on the very next day he was going to prove his everlasting, divine royalty on the cross of Calvary. Did he dream of his Father and the angel bands when out of his lips came the music of thought?

"Do I look like a king? I, a fettered prisoner? Look I like a king? For this came I not. I come to bear testimony to the truth."

The word was just strong enough, clear enough, terse enough. It swept the chords of Pilate's heart. Half sadly, half sarcastically, the voice of human nature arose to the lips of the judge. He asked the question of ages; he asked the question of every conscience, of every human heart; he asked the question of every thinker, of every sage, of every philosopher. "What is truth?" And the living answer to that question stood before him and he knew it not.

Pilate turned on his feet and went out among the crowds, and gave testimony to the innocence of that prisoner when he said, "I find no cause in him."

For ages men had looked for the truth. They wanted it, and they felt the want of it. They were conscious that they did not possess it. They looked to the earth. "Earth, where is truth?" The earth never opened her bosom to disclose the vision. They looked up to the stars. "Sky, where is the truth?" The blue depths never gave a reply. And they looked for it, searched for it; looked lowly, looked loftily, looked unwearledly. They never found it at all. The living, personal, eternal answer stood before Pilate. His name was Jesus Christ and He was the answer.

Christ was perfect man and perfect God. He was perfect man, and being so, He touched the depths of every human heart; His nature was divine, and He towered to the heights of every divine conception. He was the incarnate, living answer to that question in all its breadth, in all its height, in its minutest details.

Christ, being the golden clasp between the race of man and the race of the Trinity, is the eternal answer to that question. Take away one shadow of his glory, one gleam of his sorrow, one nail from his crucified form, and He immediately becomes a fragmentary answer; hence he does not answer the whole question. The human race is bound by an instinct as deep as its own nature, by an instinct as wide as its own wants and woes. It is obliged to accept Christ as the definite, universal, historical and unchangeable answer, human and divine, durable and infinite answer to that question. "What is truth?" That truth is not a theory, not a jest, not a view, not an opinion. Views are clouds; truth, the blue arch that spans the horizon The arch over human history is Jesus Christ.

His character is human, His character is divine; He is perfect God, perfect man. Therefore Jesus Christ is the meeting place where God and man mingle. He came heralded by the prophecies of ages. Before He came He lived; before He came He figured in prophecy. Ages before He came He dwelt in the tabernacle, in the silent shades of the temple, amid the mystic rites of the priests, and He gave a meaning to their ceremonies.

He came, and moving back the history of ages, He brought forth the new dispensation. The light came and the clouds dissolved before it. The truth came Philosophers, scientists thought they possessed it; but they forgot the first and last word of all the sciencies. The first word is God, and the manifestation of the word is Jesus Christ, and He is the Incarnate word of God. I mean that God expresses through Jesus Christ the manifestation of truth. He talks of the world in this way: "I am of your mould; I am of the mould of the Trinity. Thus I link and interlink, twine and intertwine time and eternity. And I whisper a whisper, and my whispers become religious. This whisper is, "I am the truth."

What is truth? The truth is Jesus Christ They have tried time and again to banish him from human history. They never dreamed that just because His feet were nailed to the cross the weariness was taken out of them. They never dreamed that because those feet were pierced with nails, they were to walk the world for ages and ages, down the flights of time to the mists of eternity; that just because they nailed them there, that cross would be the trysting tree of faithful hearts, for ages and for ages, forever and forever more. Strange, that after six thousand years of the world's history—four thousand of which the Father was manifesting himself, and for eighteen hundred years after that, down to the present day, after the coming of the new dispensation—men will still ask the question that Pilate asked so long ago of the poor prisoner.

It is to the honor of the human mind that in its doubts and dissatisfactions, it always asks "what is truth?" Show me Christ and I show you truth; find me Him and I find you it. Find it and you find what? What does the day find in the morning when it gilds the horizon? The sun in the sky to drive away the shadows, and illuminate the earth with its golden beams.

Finding truth, my mind finds what? The radiance back from the shadows of this brow; beyond the darkness of this brain; the light of lights, and that light is truth. Find Christ and you will find truth. Where is he? Somewhere. Is he here, or is he not here? He is both. An apparent contradiction. Just after his resurrection, a few men were grouped around Him He was about to leave this world, and as he was going he said, "I stay." A seeming contradiction. Aye! And contradiction is the meeting place of many sided truths. What they saw right—was true. He went and he staid at the same time. Where is Christ? Somewhere. He said he would not leave us. Stay! But where is he? Where are those he promised to stay with? Find me truth, I find you the living answer to all the wants of my being. I find perfect man, perfect God. But where is this embodiment of truth? Where is Christ? Where are those with whom he promised to stay? He gave them an everlasting history. "I am with you all ways, even unto the consummation of the world." Find those with whom he promised to stay and I find you him.

Christ promised that he would not leave this an orphan planet, rolling its onward course in the shadows of sin. If I kneel down and kiss the feet of his word, it is because that word incarnated a thought, and that thought is Christ. Since then his little words have floated around the world, and become the religion of the truest and the best of the human family. Christ's mission ended on Ascension Sunday. Since then he is a passive principle in religion. God, even living, must represent himself in a living organism. Ever so many churches plead before the tribunal of human reason and human history too. One day God found a grain of sand on the Galilean shore, called Peter, and of this grain of sand he made a rock, and told him that the gates of hell should not prevail against it. The multiplicity of churches in our day shows the instinct which look for God in a church. Truth is one and the church presenting it must be one. Truth reaches back across all history to the apostles, and the church professing it must do the same. Church where are you? I'll tell you, persecuted church, your history must be an everlasting calvary, an everlasting crucifixion.

The sermon was listened to very attentively, and was evident made a lasting impression. We regret that we cannot give it as fully as its universal power and eloquence merits.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

HISTORY AND CARDINAL PRINCIPLES OF PRESBYTERIANISM—SERMON BY REV. JNO. J. ROBINSON, D D.

There was a large and appreciative congregation assembled at the First Presbyterian church Sunday to hear a discourse from Rev. J. J. Robinson, D D, upon the history and cardinal principles of the faith and practice of Presbyterianism. Rev Mr Martin, the pastor of the church, was absent, filling the pulpit at the First Methodist (Dr Harrison's) church. The congregation listened to the somewhat lengthy discourse of the Rev Mr Robinson in patience and with absorbing interest. We can only present here a brief and imperfect outline of

THE SERMON.

"Walk about Zion, and go round about her: tell the towers thereof.

"Mark ye well her bulwarks, consider her palaces, that ye may tell it to the generation following."—Psalm 48; vs. 12 and 13.

Taking the above verses for his text, the preacher said: we invite you to walk with us about our Zion that you may tell it to your children how our strongholds are still impregnable, and how, though overgrown in places with the moss of ages, still stands solid, massive and imperishable. While doing this—while taking the view upon the Presbyterian side—we do not disparage others who do Christ's work. Let all our brethren walk about their Zions, whose towers, bulwarks and palaces are objects of veneration and reverence. We sympathize and rejoice with them in all the triumphs of the Bible. If we think our Zion most beautiful of all—if the old blue banner which still waves and thrills our hearts as it did those of the Covenanters and Huguenots—let that not prompt us to speak disparagingly of our brethren. We have no occasion to say that the Presbyterian is the only church and that outside of its pale there is no baptism and no reason for faith. But we claim that she stands in the front rank and that no other has been so vitally interested as she in the cause of man's salvation. Eighteen centuries have made her venerable. Eighteen centuries are the witnesses of her struggles and triumphs in the work of Christ.

WHY WE SURVEY OUR ZION.

The objects of this survey are, first, to tell the towers, mark the bulwarks and consider the palaces, and second, to tell it to the generation following." The first means to survey all our defences and see that none of them are wanting or have been broken down by the assault of the red hand of persecution, and the next that we may be able to tell the other generation how God has been the strength from towers and in our palaces as a refuge. Let us in this centennial year survey our side of Presbyterianism. It is not the centennial year of the church, for she dates back to the apostles, but the centennial of American liberty in the establishment of which the followers of the Presbyterian church had more to do than any others. So intimately did they bear themselves in the work that it was rumored that they were seeking to make their religion the established religion of the country. This was denied by solemn resolutions of the synod in favor of religious tolerance.

OUR ALPHA AND OMEGA.

The preacher then spoke of the two great principles of Presbyterianism, viz: the sovereignty of God as creator, ruler and redeemer, and secondly, the total depravity of man and his dependency upon the mercy of God. He illustrated them in the most eloquent manner. The effect of embracing them and being convicted of their truth was first to humble man and then exalt him. Upon these propositions apt authorities and notable examples were cited and the most eloquent declarations of the faith were given forth. Let us tell these towers. To-day they are as staunch and immovable as when Paul pointed them out and Peter coveted them Not one has gone down under any assault. Calvinism has had to stand out against every kind of attack. These towers have been assaulted in every way that man can devise but have stood, defended by the arm of the Almighty, who planted their foundations upon the solid rock of his own eternal truth.

CALVINISTIC TRIUMPHS.

He spoke of Calvinism in the reformation and the propagation of the ideas of religious and civil liberty in Europe. Also of the persecutions to which the Presbyterians were subjected in France and elsewhere on these accounts. Of the transfer of Presbyterianism to this country and its consonance with the ideas which were uppermost in establishing the nation.

A REPRESENTATIVE CHURCH.

The preacher exemplified by scripture and the constitution of the church the cardinal fact that Presbyterianism is a breastwork and tower of defense against the encroachments of one-man power and the fickleness of the many men power. A Presbyterian royalist was unheard of in the days of '76. The great doctrine of Presbyterianism has always been "a church without a bishop and and a state without a king!"

A CHAMPION OF LIBERTY.

The preacher next reviewed the part taken by Presbyterians in the revolution. He quoted Bancroft to the effect that the first voice in favor of dissolving the bands between England and this country came from the Scotch-Irish Presbyterians of Mecklenburg county, North Carolina who moved far ahead of Adams, Jefferson and Washington. Their Presbyterianism was prima facie evidence of their rebellion. They were especial objects of royalist hate, but were willing to sacrifice everything, but their sacred honor and duty to God, to establish this American republic.

The last duty was to tell all this to the generation following. We love our sister denominations none the less, because we love best our dear old mother in the blue mantle. Her colors may be derided, but, as Dr Cuyler says, they are the color of God's sky—are fast colors and never fade. And if civil liberty in the American republic be destroyed the last refuge of its orphaned lovers will be the towers, bulwarks and palaces of Presbyterianism. Her flag will be the last to go down in the night of civil and religious despotism.

RECREATING RUFE.

BULLOCK AND HIS "LARGE PARTY" ABROAD.

An Interesting Letter from Him in the Dark Days of '71.

If anybody in Georgia imagines that the lately fugitive and latterly bailed ex-Governor Rufus B. Bullock is quietly and anxiously staying at home in Albion, N. Y., arranging his household affairs and getting together his documents, preparatory to his trials in this state for his crimes, and the possible misfortunes of a petty jury, that innocent child of imagination is grossly mistaken. Rufus is not that sort of a hairpin! He is one of your easy-going fellows, (however slow he may be in coming back again,) and he is not bothering himself any more about the state of Georgia just now than he did for the several years of his fugitive absence. Rufus is a philosopher in this matter, and either thinks it is best to let well enough alone or is felicitating himself upon the possession of a positive alibi as to criminal intentions in all the transactions with which he is charged. If he is satisfied to remain in this state of feeling no other man has a right to call upon him to weep and wail.

HIS SUMMER RESORT,

as we gain from the correspondence of the New York Herald, from Narragansett Pier, Rhode Island, is in that vicinity. The correspondent makes note of the notables and says:

"Ex-Governor Bullock of Georgia, is at Cross' Mills with a large party."

We note here the consistency of Rufus hailing from Georgia, as well as the fact that he is sloshing around the milldam with "a large party." This last statement is not consistent, however, with the statements made by Rufus when he was brought back here under arrest. Then he told a lugubrious story of his humble circumstances, how he had lived frugally and with close economy, and how he had never before stinted himself as he was then doing in the matter of enjoying life and having personal comfort.

Our readers will remember these lamentations of the ex-"Sitting Bull" of Georgia. It is now apparent that Rufus has "made a raise" somewhere; somebody has "staked him;" or he has scattered his fears to the wind, after making a first rate bond, and has drawn from its hiding place the plethoric old sock that he carried away in his fugatory carpetbag one dark and memorable night. When he thus shows his ability to travel around in style, paddle in a mill race and feast on the brain-renovating fish of the streams—and with "a large party" along at the same time—we are safe in concluding that Rufus is not in a very bad way. He seems to go out and take his otium cum dig with as much complacency as he formerly did dig out with otium, so to speak.

HIS RETURN TO GEORGIA.

We understand that letters from him received in this city convey the intelligence that he will promptly appear at the next term of the court and make his bow to His Honor. He seems to think that the trial of his cases will result in his favor, and is not certain but that, when he comes again to Georgia, it will be to stay. It is not yet definitely known whether the trial of his cases will actually occur at the next term.

AN INTERESTING RELIC.

While writing of Rufus and his "large party" we add here a clipping from the Washington, (D. C.) Evening Telegram, the contents of which may prove interesting to some people in Georgia, historically, if not otherwise. It reads:

"The following is another letter which was picked up in the capitol building. We understand that Mr Paine is a candidate for congress in the first district of Georgia:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF GEORGIA, ATLANTA, GA., January 18, 1871.

HON. JAMES G. BLAINE, Speaker House of Representatives, Washington, D C.

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to introduce to you the Hon W W Paine, member of congress elect from the first district in this state and ask for him your courteous attention.

It is the purpose of Mr. Paine to do whatever may be in his power to advance the interest and prosperity of this state, and to secure for the people of the first district, which he has the honor to represent, such assistance from the federal government as is very necessary for their welfare and for the commercial interests of the state at large. All the important ports of entry are within the district represented by Mr Paine and he will be able to represent the necessities which exist for aid from the general government, and I trust that in these matters he will receive your co-operation and assistance.

While Mr Paine has been elected on what is known as the democratic ticket, I am confident that he has no sympathy or partnership with that element of the party in the state which seeks to set aside the results of reconstruction and to nullify the legitimate effects of the constitution of the United States as amended.

I am, very respectfully, Your obedient servant, RUFUS B BULLOCK.

Hall Crowded Sunday Afternoon—Meetings Appointed for This Week.

We attended the meeting at the Young Mens Christian association hall Sunday afternoon and were much pleased to see such a large attendance. The seats were all filled and numbers stood during the entire service. The meeting was interesting throughout. Short, pointed talks and the spirited songs used by Moody and Sankey, made the hour pass pleasantly by.

At the close of the services the chairman of the devotional committee, announced that meetings would be held at the hall every night this week at 8:15 o'clock (except Wednesday night, the regular church appointment.) Every person present was invited to come and bring others.

This movement is in the right direction. True reform must begin in the hearts of our young men and women. Every pastor who wishes to bring the young man into the fold of the true Shepherd, every father or mother who has a boy out of Christ and the church, every person who has an unconverted friend, every soul unsaved. is interested in the success of these meetings.

The Legislature.

Editors Constitution: Among the candidates for the legislature we are glad to see the name of Captain Sidney Dell. For ten years he has been an earnest worker in our midst for the democratic party, and we think it is time his labors should be rewarded.

True to his party, true as steel to the working classes and their interest, and best of all, true to himself, he is one of those of whom we can say—he is that rarest and best of all God's creatures—"an honest man." We earnestly hope and trust that our citizens and the honest country folk will give him their "well done" by polling for him a rousing vote and place him where he can do most good, namely—at the head of our delegation to the state legislature. He has the confidence of our people we know, so let us elect him. SOUTHRON.

COOKING THE RADICAL GOOSE.

JOE MILLS DRAWS A TERRIBLE INDICTMENT AGAINST THE MARKHAM CROWD.

How the Griffin Convention Represented Whisky and Greenbacks—Geo. McKinney on the Situation.

As there have been conflicting reports put out as to the character and proceedings of the late radical district convention at Griffin, a CONSTITUTION reporter yesterday asked Joseph G. W. Mills, the last defeated candidate for congress in this district, how the old thing really was. Joe is a good friend to reporters and is always willing to tell what he knows. He did tell us about the convention, of which he was a member by proxy for a gentleman who was unable to attend by reason of having sickness in his family. Joe is a plain spoken man when he takes a notion, and in this case he stated that he was so thoroughly disgusted that he thought public justice demanded that a correct summing up of that convention should be given. He proceeded thereupon to draw for us, as we noted it, the following terrible

BILL OF INDICTMENT:

1. That the republican committee of which Mr. J W Jackson was chairman—was the only legal representative committee of the republican party of Fulton county.

A FRAUDULENT COMMITTEE.

2. That the so called committee of which Mr William Markham claimed to be chairman was organized and brought into an assumed existence by an office holder's ring composed almost entirely of whisky gaugers, revenue collectors, revenue store keepers, deputy United States marshals, United States commissioners and expectants, to go there with a large representation of non residents of the county—who took a very prominent part in the proceedings without the least right so to do.

A DEFENSIVE ALLIANCE.

3. That the Markham committee was concocted for the sole purpose to ward off, and drown the efforts that were being pushed by the legal committee having in view a successful and permanent organization of the republican party—which desirable result could only be attained by the removal of several incompetent and distasteful federal officers in Atlanta.

A FIGHT FOR BREAD AND BUTTER.

4. That the success of the legal committee in effecting certain changes here, was looked upon in a frenzied alarm by many of the office holding crew throughout Georgia, who had long and most unworthily fattened upon the bounty of the administration, and were holding their offices by means of fraudulent deception, and who knew well enough that as an entering wedge had been driven, their unpalatable history would likely be unveiled to an already disgusted and indignant public.

MARKHAM AS THEIR SAVIOR.

5. That the asserted nomination of Mr. Markham for congress assures the class alluded to that their cause will be championed and that if elected he would use all the influence he could bring to bear to rivet the chains imposed by an official dynasty still tighter upon the limbs of the people.

HIS PARTISAN ZEAL.

6. That Mr Markham more than once in the most wanton manner assailed the private character of gentlemen who were advocating a contrary policy to his own by asserting here and in Washington that there was no respectability attaching to any of the parties, agreeing with the views of Mr. Jackson by endorsing the movement against the ring, and he said this in order if possible to prevent certain parties from being removed, whose heads at the time were thought to be on the block ready for the executioner and the basket through and by the efforts of what Markham is pleased to term the "Jackson, Mills and Wimpy ring" of the republican party.

BUYING UP A NOMINATION.

7. That Markham, to secure the nomination, sent his henchmen ahead to Griffin, and by the use of whisky and greenbacks, succeeded, through them, in overriding the expressed will of at least nine-tenths of the republican voters of the district, by having himself proclaimed the nominee in the midst of a wild and drunken revelry.

COUNTIES NOT REPRESENTED.

8. That the counties of Crawford, DeKalb Fayette, Milton, Monroe, Pike and Upson, constituting a majority of the counties in the district were not represented, no conventions having been held in either of them at which delegates could be appointed in conformity with any honest usage.

FULTON COUNTY INSULTED.

9. That the delegation from Fulton county of which Mr. Jackson was chairman was the only representative delegation of the republicans of Fulton county, and that over fifteen hundred republican voters have been insulted and injured in its rejection by the Markham mob in convention at Griffin on the 9th inst.

NO MARKHAM FOR THEM

10. That the republican party of Fulton county and of the district will not allow itself sold out for whisky and greenbacks, and the republicans of Fulton, or at least nine-tenths of them, having been refused representation by the most unheard of procedure, our people will offer their most solemn protest against all the proceedings and pledge themselves sink or swim not to support Wm Markham, whose pretended nomination was the offspring of a detestable manipulation, accelerated to accomplishment by a glaring fraud and through the agency of a drunken mob composed in part of revenue collectors, revenue gaugers, revenue store keepers, still house minders, and commissioners, post office clerks and postmasters, expectants, non-residents and applicants.

TEN DOLLARS A COUNTY.

11. That the whole thing was farmed out and bought up, and the counties alluded to, viz, Crawford, DeKalb, Fayette, Milton, Monroe, Pike and Upson, were sold to Markham for the sum of ten dollars each, more or less, hotel bill, and a railroad ticket to and from Griffin included. Let these worthies answer to their counties, by biding away when the canvass tocsin shall sound—let them flee away to the mountains of Hepsidam and thereby preserve their worthless carcasses—unworthy profligates who would bargain their birth rights for a mess of pottage.

AN INDEPENDENT CANVASS

12. That to meet this exigency and hold these conspirators against human rights and liberty to a strict accountability before an indignant public, it is the unalterable determination of the republicans of Fulton county and of the district, to support an independent candidate, and to call upon all principle loving, law abiding republicans to rally to his support, feeling assured that he can be elected in spite of greenbacks and whisky, thus showing to the world, and especially to those ring masters who have been running in a maddened riot, with the rights and liberties of our people, that we do not submit like cravens to the nefarious scheme of Markham's nomination, but appealing to the good and true, the fair minded, the honest and the brave, call upon them and they only to rally around our independent flag, which, being borne by one scar-worn and invincible as well as true, must and will lead us to victory.

Then the republican party of the fifth district will be disenthralled and free. Coming out of the smoke of battle with no collar around its neck inscribed with the words:

"Markham, whisky, greenbacks, revenue collectors, United States commissioners, revenue gaugers, revenue store keepers, postoffice clerks, postmaster expectants, non-presidents ring masters, bummers, and tramps, etc., etc., to the end of the black alphabet.

THEY STAND BY HIM.

As far as we can ascertain from the parties who were at Griffin, and whose voices were stifled by the whisky-maddened mob, the indictment as above drawn by Mr Mills is supported in every assertion and they support him in every charge therein made.

WIMPY OR MILLS,

it is claimed, will be the independent candidate against Markham, and we are told by leading colored men that whatever republican chooses to oppose, Markham will beat him from two to three votes in every county in the district. If he is named for governor, and John Conley put on in his place, the defeat will only be the more signal and complete.

SPEAKING TO NIGHT.

Hereto we append the notice of a speaking to-night, whereat Geo McKinney will tell the story of the Griffin row. He is in dead earnest and will make things warm.

TO THE COLORED CITIZENS OF FULTON COUNTY:

ATLANTA, August 14, 1876.

Having been requested by many colored citizens to give publicly a history of the work of the Griffin convention I have consented to do so, at 8:30 p m, on the 15th inst, at the junction of Peachtree and Marietta streets. By two witnesses I will substantiate my account as furnished to the reporter of the CONSTITUTION, and let you be the judges as to who is the liar about what happened at the Griffin convention.

GEO. MCKENNEY.

There will be fun and instruction for all who attend. Let us have the whole story from the lips of disgusted brethren!
